

Comic, 2-act opera, 'Sweethearts,' entertain Wednesday, Thursday

"Sweethearts," a comic opera by Victor Herbert, presented Wednesday and Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the Smith Auditorium.

The first musical production of the summer season, "Sweethearts" is a light opera featuring soloists, dancers, chorus and orchestra. It will be presented by the Opera Workshop with Dr. Don L. Earl, professor of music, conductor and stage director.

THE OPERA TELLS the story of the adventures of Princess Jeanne, the disguised Princess Jeanne, the disguised Princess Jeanne, who works in a laundry, and her troubles in trying to recover her throne. She falls in love with a pretender to her throne and in turn encounters many difficulties.

Lyrics for "Sweethearts" were written by Robert B. Smith and the book was written by Henry B. Smith and Fred De Groat. The cast will feature 15 leads and be supported by a chorus of 43 singers accompanied by an 18 piece orchestra.

Renowned inventor set for Music Clinic here

The inventor of more than 27 patented devices in music and acoustics will be a lecturer at the 18th annual Summer Music Clinic July 30-Aug. 1.

Dr. Earle L. Kent, director of research, development and design for C. G. Conn Ltd., Elkhart, Ind., will discuss "The Ear and Music" Aug. 1 and "New Frontiers in Musical Acoustics" Aug. 2. Both lectures will begin at 11 a.m. in Room 184 of the Jesse Knight Building and are open to the public.

Administration does juggling, 3 get new slots

July has marked three administrative changes at BYU.

Taking the reins in new positions have been J. Elliot Cameron, Dean of Students, Prof. C. LeVar Rockwood, Student Coordinator, and Gerald Mathews, BYU Security Office Manager and Traffic Coordinator.

DR. KENT has worked in electronics and acoustics for 26 years. He received the bachelor's and master's degrees from Kansas State College and his Ph.D. degree from the University of Michigan.

He is listed in "Who's Who in Engineering," "Who's Who in Music," "Who's Who in the Midwest" and "American Men in Science."

THE CLINIC will provide two full weeks of music training in band, choral and orchestral work, methodology, music theory and appreciation, and participation in small brass, string, piano, woodwind and vocal ensembles.

Visiting faculty for the clinic will include Ralph Rush, professor of music education, undergraduate and graduate college students, music teachers and supervisors, professional musicians and other adult musicians.

DEAN CAMERON replaces Dr. B. West Belpap, who will be Dean of the College of Religious Instruction this fall.

Prof. Rockwood is taking the place of Paul Felt, who this fall will be a member of the College of Religious Instruction faculty. Prof. Felt is bishop of BYU 28th Ward, Second Stake.

Mr. Mathews has taken the reins from Walter Read, who will leave with his wife for the Eastern States Mission August 15. Mr. Mathews had since 1954 been Director of Traffic for BYU Security.

Language test set 4 p.m. today

The California Language Test will be administered today at 4 p.m. in B-238 Smoot Administration Bldg., according to a secretary in the teacher certification office.

The test is a second chance for students seeking teacher certification who did not show the required ability in grammar and spelling on the Junior English Proficiency Exam.

Wagon wheels, hay bales . . .

Old West flavor to pervade dance

Wagon wheels, bales of hay and the Singing Strings western band will set an Old West atmosphere for the western dance Friday at 8:30 p.m. in the Smith Family Living Center.

Sponsored by ASBYU and Western Club, the dance is themed "Wagon Wheels," and is for all students and faculty, according to Western Club vice president, Jane Reese.

THE SINGING STRINGS band is one of the most popular western bands in Utah, Miss Reese commented.

Dress is western, she said. Admission will be by activity card or Western Club card.

Refreshments will be served.

Pigram before Timp ascent expected to draw thousands

Thousands are expected to attend the traditional Timpanogos program at 8 p.m. July night before the annual summit of 12,000-foot Mount Timpanogos.

SETTING FOR the program will be the amphitheater in Theater of the Pines at Aspen Grove, starting point of the world's largest community climb.

The program will include a welcoming greeting; community singing; a short discussion of the new Timpanogos Scenic Area by Clarence S. Thornock, supervisor of Unita National Forest; hints to hikers; a variety program featuring the Clinger Singers and the West-ernaires; awarding of Timp sticks; and a fire lighting ceremony by the modern dancers to lead into the climax of the program which will be the lighting of the hiker bonfire.

THE TIMP STICKS will be presented to the oldest hiker present, the hiker who has come from the farthest distance to attend.

Heiller masters organ, his concert memorable

by Joan Thomander
Graduate organ student

Mastery of a strange instrument in a short time is the problem which confronts every touring organist. Mr. Anton Heiller, Viennese organist who presented a memorable concert last evening on the Joseph Smith Memorial organ, demonstrated that he had not only complete mastery of the organ but a thorough understanding of the music and great sensitivity to the aesthetic.

PERHAPS THE BEST proof was his rendition of the Bach "Trío Sonata in C Major" which for most was an unprecedented experience. The lines of the highly contrapuntal composition were enhanced by the Baroque registration which emphasized the upper partials and by the delicate and subtle phrasing which infused the work with light. The clarity and incisiveness achieved was of the utmost pleasure to the listeners.

Also notable for mastery of the organ and understanding of the music was his performance of the "Fantasy and Fugue, Opus 52," by Max Reger, at best a problematic work for organists. The frequently thick textures in low registers present difficult problems because the stops must be carefully selected to avoid muddiness. Mr. Heiller again achieved clarity, and the piece was full of beautiful and contrasting passages. Of particular excitement were the passages in which the chorale melody entered powerfully in the pedals accompanied by swiftly moving lines played by the hands. The difficult and exhausting work was executed with the technical facility displayed in all works on the program.

MR. HEILLER performed his own compositions with the same high standard of mastery and understanding. The works themselves were remarkable, for they lacked the empty virtuosic display so common to the works of many organist-composers. In marked contrast, the selections were architecturally sound, the effect derived from the interplay of beautiful lines and contrasting movements.

The only possible desire yet unfilled in the visit of this distinguished artist is the desire to hear the improvisation for which he is noted. The taxing program of last night necessarily precluded improvisation, but we still hope to be privileged during the course of the day's musical activities to hear the improvised product of this great creative mind and soul.

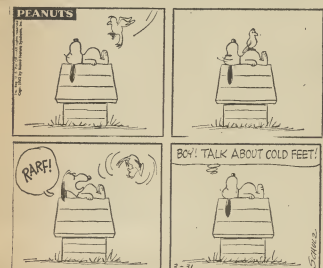

Copies of speech by Flo French due next week

So many students have requested copies of the speech given last Thursday by Flo French that the Dramatic Arts Dept. is working to make mimeographed copies of it available by July 19, according to Dorothy Hicks, department secretary.

EACH COPY will cost 25 cents, she said, and may be purchased at the Dramatic Arts Dept. office at the Steadman House on 17th North on the canyon road.

Students may call the Steadman House office at Ext. 2112 to make advance orders, and if they will not be on campus when the speeches are ready, may make arrangements to have them mailed, Mrs. Hicks said.

WATERMELON WINNERS—This couple was the winning couple in a contest at the Watermelon Bust Saturday night. Each member of the five couples participating was blindfolded and placed eight feet from his partner. The men turned around at a signal and attempted to find their partner and eat her watermelon ahead of the others.

Is man never satisfied? ...

Playwright 'pokes fun' in current satirical farce

by Peggy Lautenschlager
Graduate student in dramatic arts

Max Golightly's broad direction sets the jocose style for "The Man Who Married A Dumb Wife," satirical farce which opened Tuesday evening in the BYU Arena Theatre.

COMIC IRONY permeates this play about a Paris judge of the 15th century who longs to have his beautiful, young wife speak to him. Once the flow of words is tapped, there is no stopping it.

Playwright Anatole France is laughing at all of us. Are we never satisfied? He pokes fun at judges and at doctors with their obscure terms for ordinary maladies. He lauds the virtue of a woman who knows how to speak and how to stop.

DIRECTOR GOLIGHTLY has plotted his action around an octagonal dias center stage which adds importance to the fudge's desk placed atop it.

Every woman realizes the importance of the truths which she must impart to him: "The cost of living is getting higher every day." "There is no home life any more," she declares. Every man sympathizes with the harried husband, driven mad by her incessant prattling. He complains to the doctor, "You should have given her speech, but not so much."

WHAT DOES A man do when he is beset by a talkative wife? The farcical ending solves the dilemma but the audience must decide how, many husbands would wish to adopt his cure.

Robert White plays a strong lead as the judge. Tommy Stokoe assumes an exaggerated manner of speaking for his role as the lawyer, and John Richards' extreme characterization ignites the humor for the medicinal triumvirate of doctor, surgeon and apothecary.

THE MANY SMALL parts add a distinctive flavor to the period piece. Glen Nelson's fine voice supplies a melodious commentary from the Blind Man. Lynda De Rouen and Fred Stout add a tart touch.

The artistry of costume designer Carol Michie contributes immeasurably to the decor and the authenticity of the medieval setting and allows the actors to utilize the comic possibilities of their attire.

Not all words were clearly distinguishable in the hasty delivery of flowery language and long robes were occasionally a hazard to rapid movement on opening night. However, the capable cast undoubtedly will polish their techniques into finesse as they continue their performances.

Former Journalism Dept. head returns from Hawaii teaching

by Glenn Butterfield University Reporter

minor under the department of English.

Dr. Oliver R. Smith, former chairman of the Journalism Dept. and long-time teacher of journalistic arts, has returned to Provo after a year's sabbatical leave in Hawaii.

Dr. Smith and family left by plane for the LDS Church College of Hawaii last September, "But it's good to be back in Provo," he said.

CONCERNING HIS purpose at the college, Dr. Smith said, "My activity was helping set up a Journalism curriculum and teaching Journalism and English. I was also adviser to the school newspaper and yearbook." He said that he and his family also learned many things about the Hawaiian culture and peoples, since the "main object of a sabbatical leave is to gain knowledge."

Dr. Smith and wife Barbara took their eight children in the plane trip, gave them the opportunity of cultural experience in the Islands for one year, then the family returned to the mainland by boat. Their children are Kay, 19, a sophomore at BYU; Olivia, 17; Kenneth, 15; Ronald, 12; Rebecca, 10; Debby, 7; Dorothy, 4; and Richard, 2. Dr. Smith said the family enjoyed Hawaii but was glad to be home again.

Concerning the Church College, Dr. Smith said that "It is the second largest institution of higher education in Hawaii, second to the University of Hawaii." He said it had a 30 per cent gain in enrollment last year and, since becoming a four-year college in 1960, has graduated two classes with bachelor's degrees. Most of these were in the field of education.

Dr. Smith said that under the new Journalism curriculum, students can obtain a Journalism

A graduate of BYU in 1938 with a bachelor's degree, Dr. Smith then became a full member of the BYU teaching staff in 1940. He took his first sabbatical in 1949, when he obtained his doctorate from the University of Iowa.

Dr. Smith also took time off to serve an administrative position in the Army Air Force during World War II. Still affiliated with the Air Force, he holds the rank of Lt. Col. (Res.) Before leaving for Hawaii, he served as unit commander for the Air Force Reserve in Provo.

Of future plans, Dr. Smith said he will assist in the High School Journalism Workshop at BYU in August, then resume teaching Journalism here in September.

When interviewed, Dr. Smith and children were "putting our home in shape again." They live at 970 N. 1200 East in Provo.

Know a group of Boy Scouts or Relief Society ladies that want to know about the University? Arrange with Sterling Workman, Chairman of Conferences and Conventions, to conduct them on a tour of the campus.

The office of Mr. Workman, part of University Relations, is always busy. According to Mr. Workman, during April, 55 groups totaling 3,243 people took tours from his office. They included Aaronic Priesthood groups, Boy Scouts, seminary groups, Relief Society groups and many clubs and organizations.

A typical tour was taken by the Stafford Ward Relief Society that was here Wednesday. The first stop was the Smoot Administration Bldg. After an explanation of the buildings seen from the quad, they went into the new library which will eventually house one million volumes.

They were impressed by the modern facilities and beauty of the library, according to Mr. Workman. But their main interest was in the Smith Family Living Center where they saw the nursery school which is maintained to aid child development classes and other family living classes.

Pageant, Carthage, Kirtland temple await Church history tour group

by Diana McFarland
Universe Feature Editor

The Hill Cumorah Pageant, Carthage Jail, the Kirtland temple — these are but a few of the sights that await members of the BYU 13th annual Church History Tour, which will leave from Salt Lake City July 31.

Reservations can still be made for the tour at the Dept. of Travel Study, Ext. 2747, announced Gary Constock, assistant to the department chairman.

TOURING COST will be $340, including air transportation, Constock said. One semester hour of credit will be given for the eight-day tour.

Highlights of the tour will be the lectures of Dr. Truman G. Madsen, Prof. Lynn McKinlay and Dr. Howard Barron, who will direct the tour, Constock pointed out.

Dr. Madsen was recently called to be president of the New England Mission, in which much of the tour takes place. Prof. McKinlay is in the Dept. of Dramatic Arts, and Dr. Barron is in the Dept. of Bible and Modern Scripture.

TOUR MEMBERS will taste the historical flavor of early Church events as they visit the spots where history was made. The tour's first stop is Sharon, VT, where they will visit the birthplace of the Prophet Joseph Smith. At Palmyra, N.Y., they will attend the Hill Cumorah Pageant and visit the Sacred Grove.

They will see the Kirtland Temple and meet at the site of the Nauvoo Temple. In Nauvoo they will visit the graves of the Prophet Joseph and his brother, Hyrum. They will see historic Carthage Jail, where the prophet and his brother were martyred.

A LECTURE WILL be given at Adam-Ondi-Ahman, near Independence, Mo., and they will visit the Liberty Jail.

The final stop will be West Quarters in Omaha, Neb., where 600 Saints perished in 1891. From Omaha, tour members will fly back to Salt Lake City.
